Excerpt: .all persons born between December 31. 1750 and March 25. 1751 f--is still apt to perplex those who have to deal in any way with the dates of events and documents anterior to the parliamentary reformation of the Calendar. For example: the anniversaries of remarkable occurrences which happened in England before the adoption of the New Style are, as given in some, if not all, of our almanacs, really erroneous, and may lead to further errors, unless their character is clearly understood. 1752, being a leap-year. f And not only of such but of all (mutatis mutandis) born in the corresponding period of any year preceding, who were living after the alteration. Respecting such records the editors of a popular annual publication say: -- In the anniversaries given in the British Almanac, the alterations of style made in 1752 have not been followed, as any...
